THE FACES OF SHERIDAN HIGH

Mr. Hobbs is in the study hall each morning before school to issue absence passes and supervise the assembly program.

The candy store is the crossroads of activity in the lower halls during the noon hour.

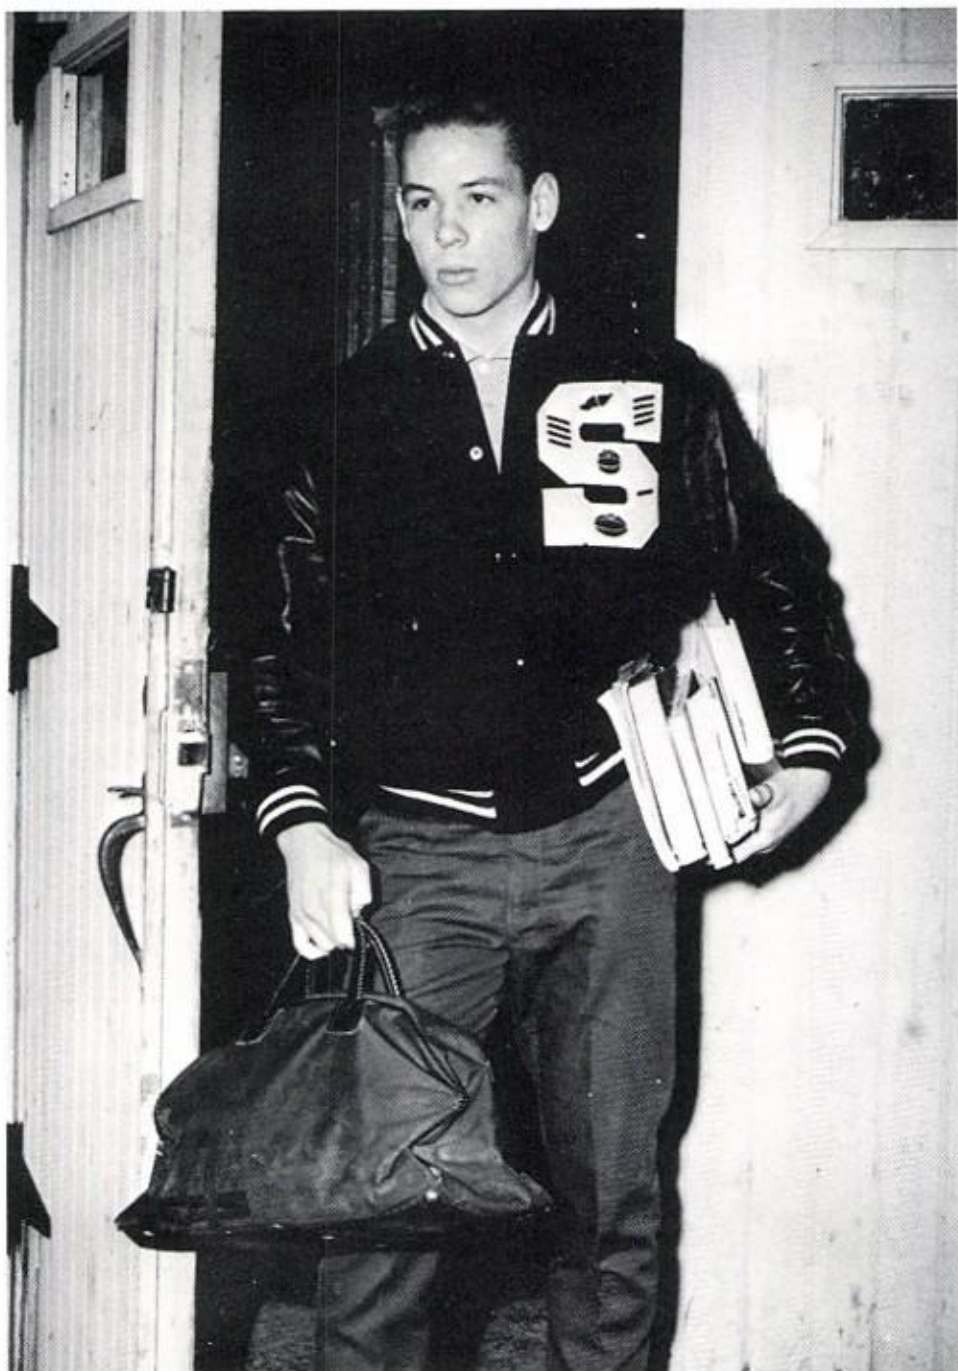

Constantly changing, shifting, growing, and expanding, these are the faces of Sheridan High. What we do, what we think, and what we feel, the sum total of what we are: these are reflected on our faces. In the school year of 1961-62 our faces mirrored good times, a few disappointments, hard study, relaxation, and the glow of seeing lasting friendships and ideals form.

SHS is not just a group of buildings, a schedule of classes, a group of teachers and students, although it is partially these things. Our school is much more, it is an ideal personified, an atmosphere in which we can think and learn in a spirit of freedom and enlightenment.

All through our lives our faces will reflect what we learned here. We can never really leave Sheridan High School behind because it is within us.

A school year passes and faces change, but in this book are the faces we will remember as the school year of 1961-62.

(Below) Russell Pickett and Lynn Brandenburg look over the school emblem, Victor, the stuffed Blackhawk.

The halls are alive with activity during the three minute break between classes.

(Right) Tom Moore leaves school late in the afternoon after basketball practice. During football and basketball seasons, athletes practice long after school.

FACES: THE GROUNDS AND BUILDINGS

Sheridan High School is located in a seven acre plot on the northeast corner of the town of Sheridan. The present building was first used in 1931; additions were constructed in 1949 and 1953.

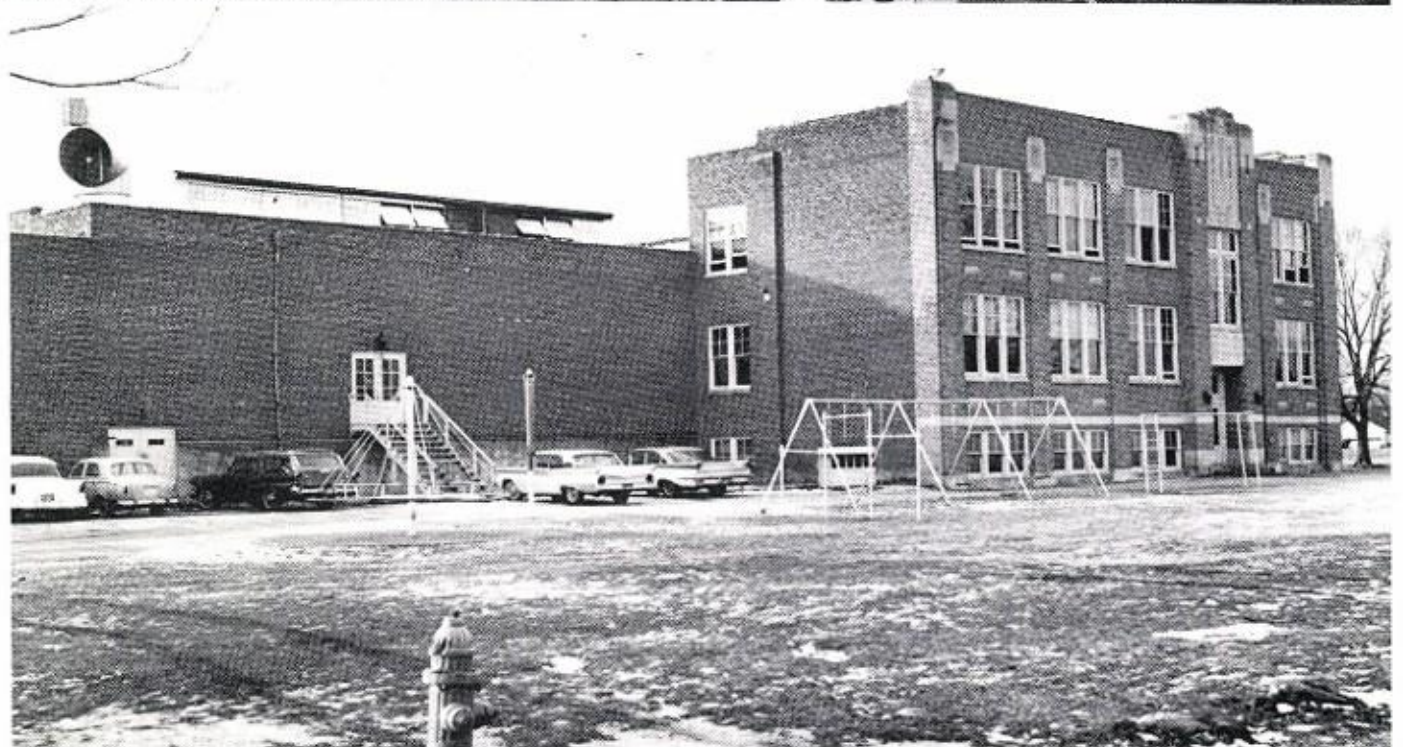

Sheridan's facilities, once considered more than adequate, are fast becoming inadequate. With a total enrollment of 984 in grades 1--12, the present building is becoming more crowded each year. Also, Adams Township is faced with the problem of whether or not to consolidate with adjacent townships for new school buildings.

Strawbrick, glass, cement, and limestone from the architectural "face" of Sheridan High--the west side of the building.

For many people, the school day begins the minute they leave the school buses which have brought them from home.

Swings, the ocean wave, teacher's cars, the gym wall, windows and doors: this is Sheridan High from the north east.

Sliding on the slides, swinging on the swings, riding on the merry-go-round, running, playing, letting off steam: this is recess.

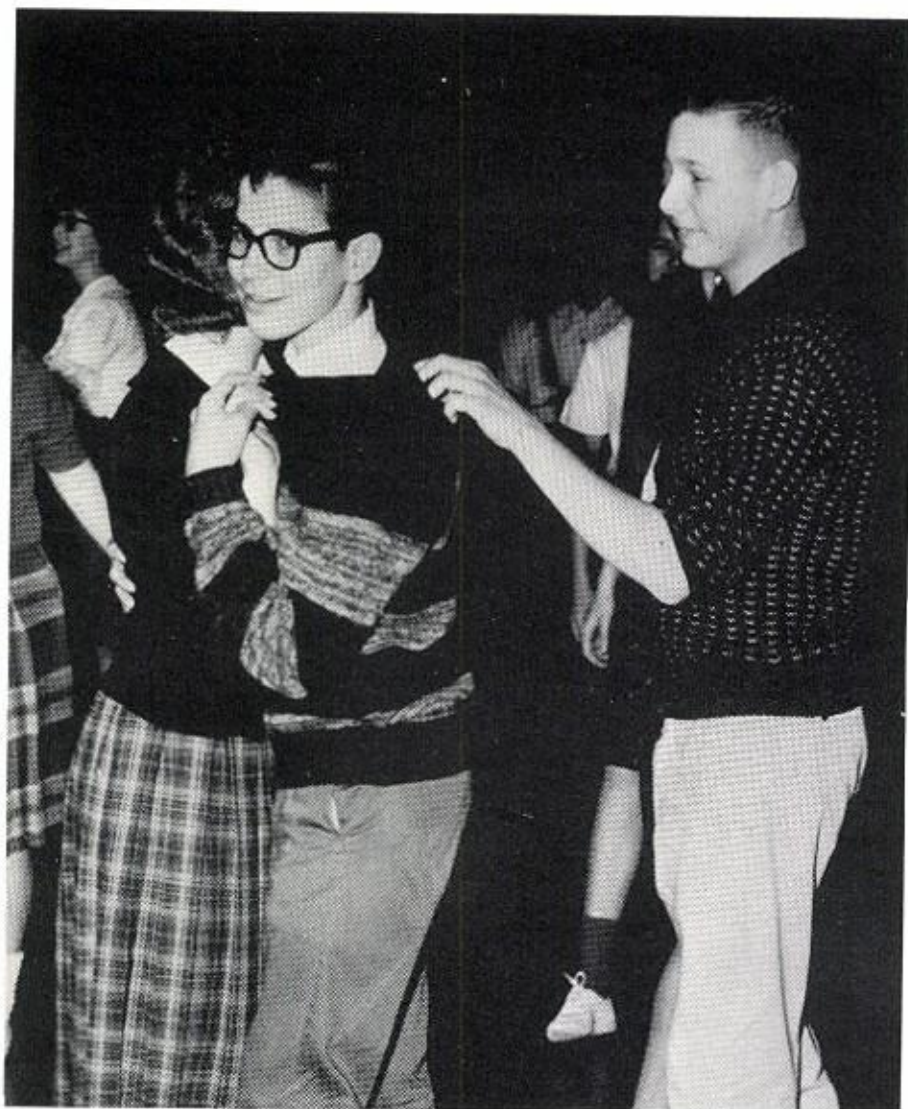

Every bell is a signal for classrooms to empty, and halls to become jammed with people on the move.

Before the morning assembly program begins, the study hall is alive with the hum and buzz of people chattering, giggling, and conferring.

FACES: THE PEOPLE AND PLACES

The school year of 1961-62 has passed in a swirl of faces and events. It was an important year for all of us: for the seniors who graduated and for the underclassmen who will return to SHS. This was a year of change; change physically and mentally; change in our outlooks, attitudes, and goals. It was a year which has given us memories we will retain all of our lives. Making an honor roll (or just missing one), winning a varsity letter or an "S" jacket, joining a club, being elected to an office, a "special" date to a class play (or a dance, or a football game, or a basketball tourney, or a skating party, or a prom), the sense of having achieved something after a struggle: these are the memories which will leave their imprint upon our personality.

Janet Cody seems to be a popular dancer as Rick Wilhelm cuts in on David Woodrum.

Harley Bonehead (Alden West) carries the ball on an "endsweep" behind the interference of Rock Morton (Russel Hayes) and Sam Shale (Steve Garrett) in a speech class football skit based on the Flintstones.

The cafeteria line seems to move at a speed inversely proportional to our hunger.

To the traditional strains of Elgar's POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE the members of each year's graduating class march into the gym to receive their diplomas.

(Left) "Who was the 11th President of the United States?" asks Mr. Landis of his History 11 class, utilizing that old faculty favorite, the "pop" quiz.

The grade children just can't seem to relax as they wait for the curtain to go up on the afternoon performance of the Senior Play.

FACES: THE PEOPLE

"Gallia est omnis divisa in partes tres." In Latin I class, Tom Grinstead gives a report on Julius Caesar's strategy in the first Gallic War.

Ability to get along with others is of vital importance, both in school and in the world we are preparing to enter. At Sheridan High, we have a chance to learn by experience the value of cooperation. By the constant contact with different people and the "give and take" this involves, the rough edges of our won personalities are filed off.

In the final analysis, Sheridan High must be considered in terms of the people who compose it. People who teach and people who learn; people who study and people who don't; friendly people, shy people, happy people, lonely people, ambitious people, contented people, intelligent people. All shades of people: this is Sheridan High. People, moving forward into the future.

Doreen Weaver and Margaret Shelburne look at symbols of Sheridan's past athletic glory in the trophy case.

Students buy books at the bookstore each fall before school starts. Profits from the bookstore have been used to purchase band uniforms, football bleachers, basketball bankboards, the television in the assembly, and phys. ed. lockers.

(Left) All courses lead to the library. A large number of reference volumes provides students the information they seek.

Students have a chance to catch up on their assignments in study hall. First period, under Mr. Hobbs, is pictured below.

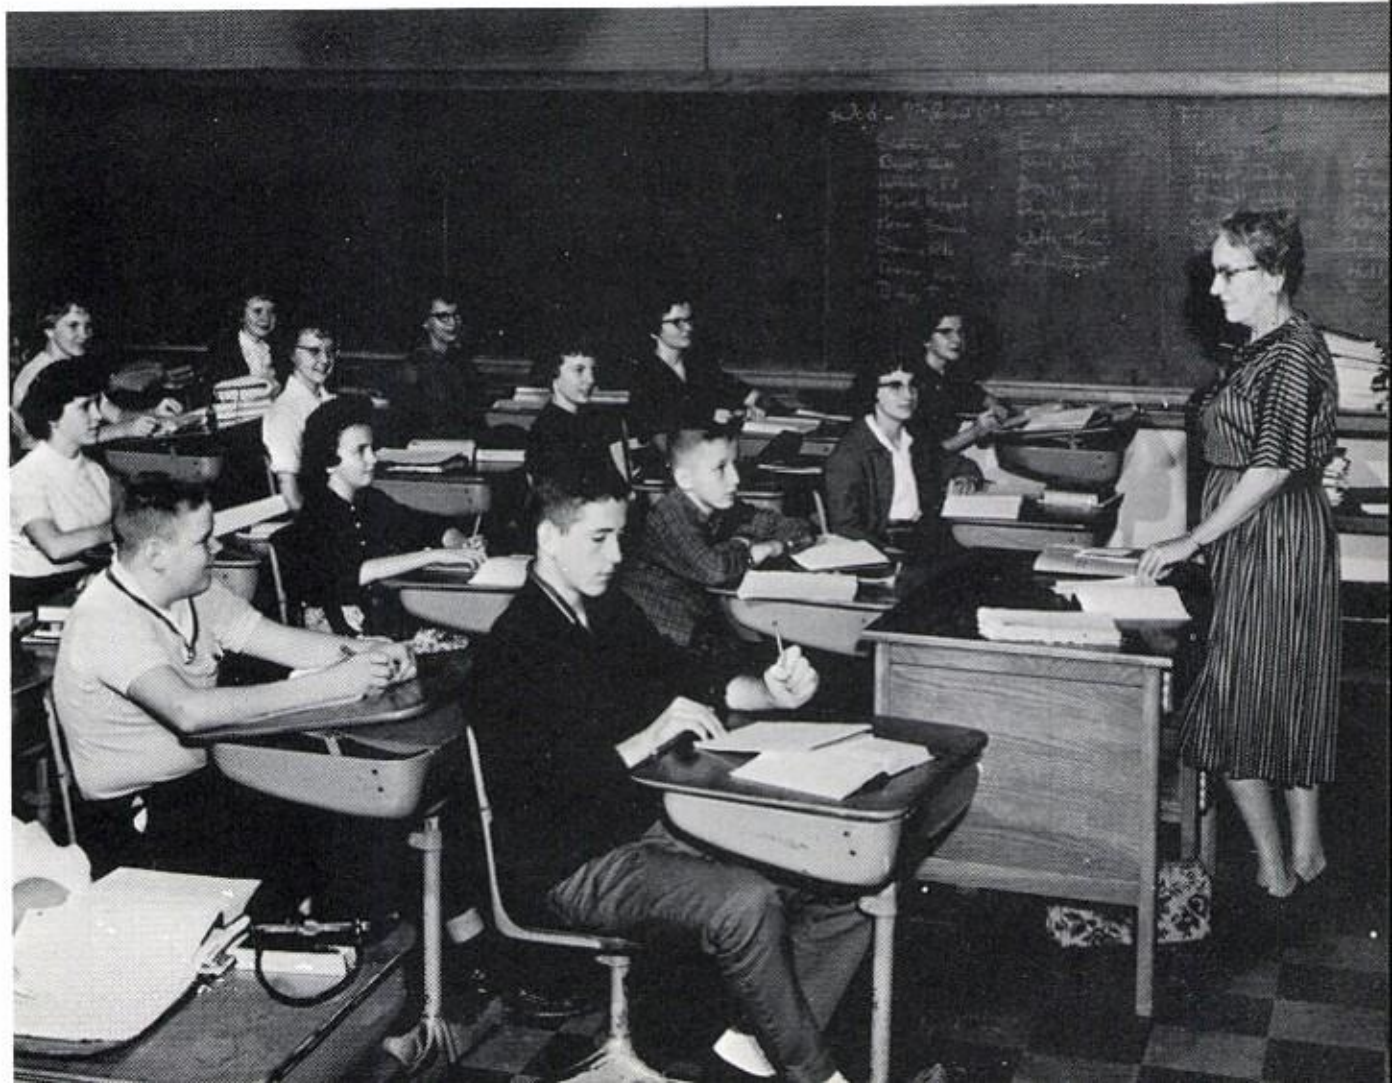

THE FACES OF SHERIDAN HIGH: CLASSES

The purpose of education is develop the ability to think, reason, and make decisions for oneself, as well as to acquire a working knowledge of the basic subjects studied. By means of the courses studied in school, the cultural heritage of the past is handed down to the present generation.

There are several different fields of study open to the student at Sheridan High. He may take a college preparatory, commercial, vocational, or general academic course, according to his preference and ambition.

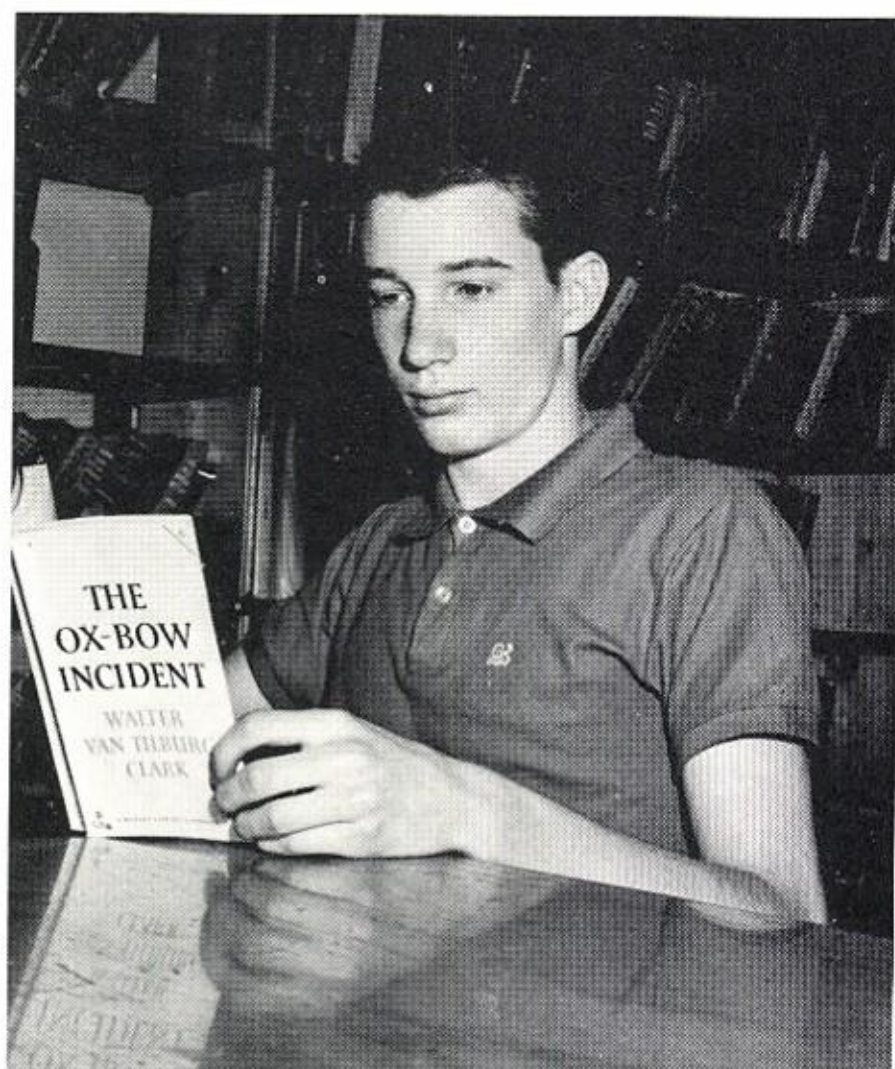

"La plume est sur la table," recite the members of the French I class. They repeat the French phrases after they hear them correctly pronounced on the record.

One of the most vital skills in the world today is the art of communication with others by the spoken and written word.

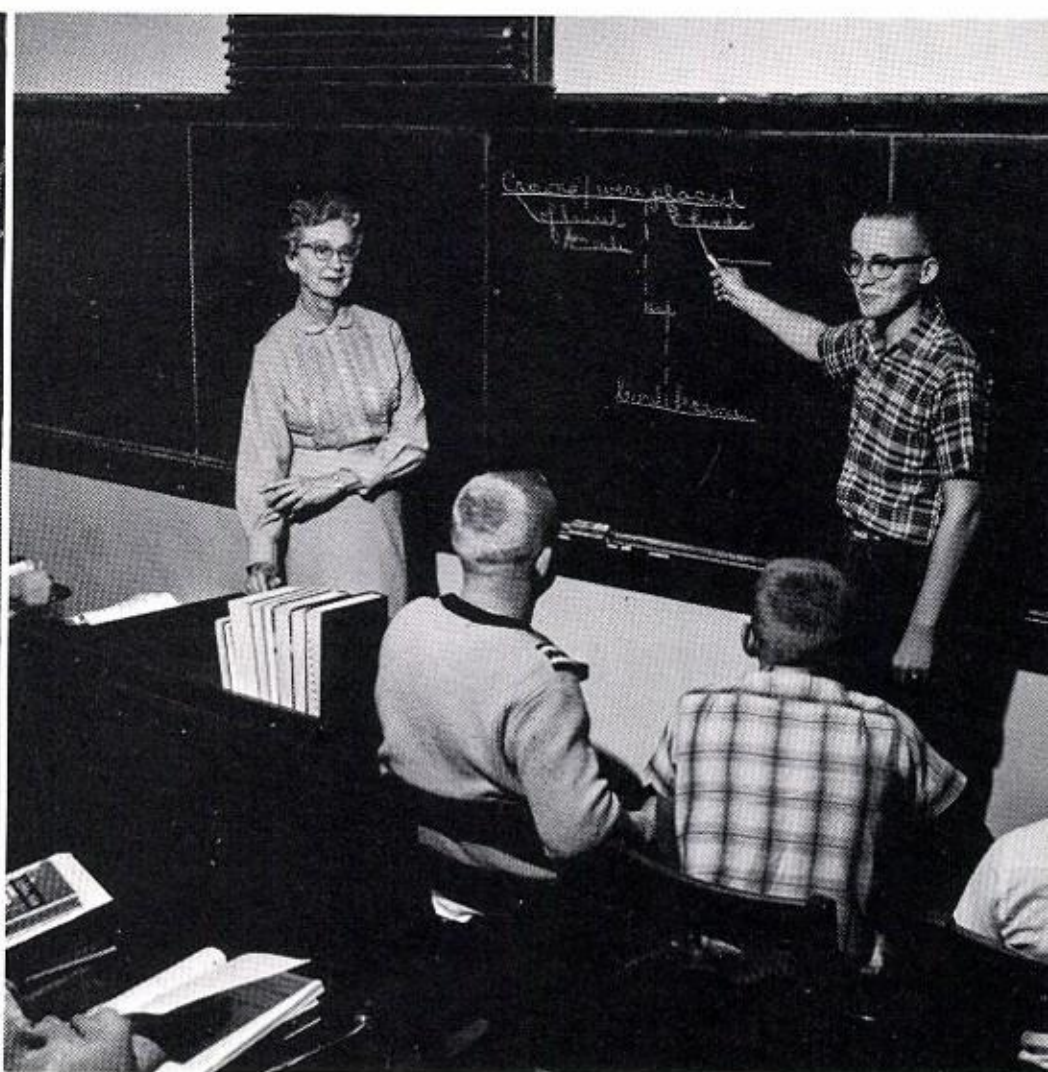

English is the lifeblood of an education, the one skill whose use is necessary for the comprehension of all others. SHS requires four years of English for graduation. Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors take alternate semesters of general English and literature. Seniors may choose between grammar and composition, and English literature.

In our rapidly shrinking world where only one fourth of its population speaks or understands English, the knowledge of a foreign language is extremely helpful. Students at SHS are offered Latin I and II, and French I and II. Many modern teaching methods are used in these language courses. Tape recorders, record players, and audio-visual equipment are all utilized.

WE LEARN TO COMMUNICATE WITH OTHERS

Steve Garrett seems to be in the process of diagramming a compound-complex indicative sentence in English 11.

Ralph Weaver concentrates on THE OX-BOW INCIDENT, a minor contemporary classic which he is reading for sophomore literature.

For some reason, Sheridan doesn't seem to be included on this map, but Chuck English shows a U.S. History class where it is anyway.

AND STUDY THE LESSONS OF THE PAST

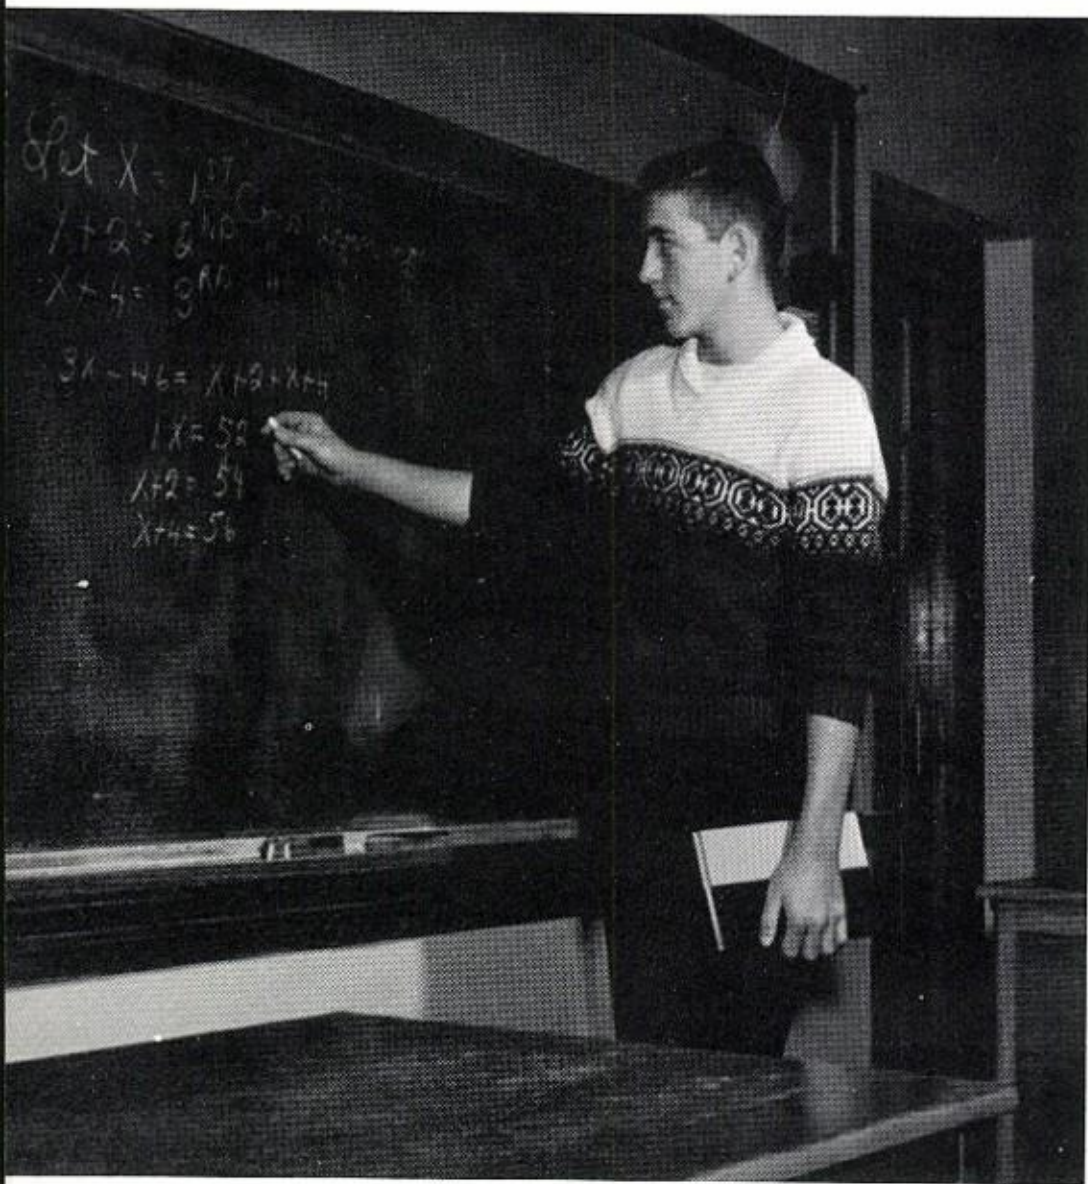

Understanding the past, recognizing today's problems, and preparing for the future: these are the aims of the social studies department at Sheridan High School. We learn much about the democratic processes which safeguard our freedom. Our American system of government is based upon three things: the essential freedoms, free enterprise, and the importance of each individual. Among the things we study are the "why" and the "how" of our nation's laws, our economic system, and the history of the United States and of the world. By studying man's rise from the caveman era to the nuclear age, by analyzing his accomplishments and failures, we hope to derive a lesson for today. If we cannot learn from the past, we are condemned to relive it.

Three years of social studies are required for graduation at Sheridan High School. We take world history as sophomores, U.S. history as juniors, and government as seniors. Elective courses in sociology and economics are offered.

Mrs. Cline shows a Government 12 class the sixth congressional district on a special map (courtesy of Steve Shook).

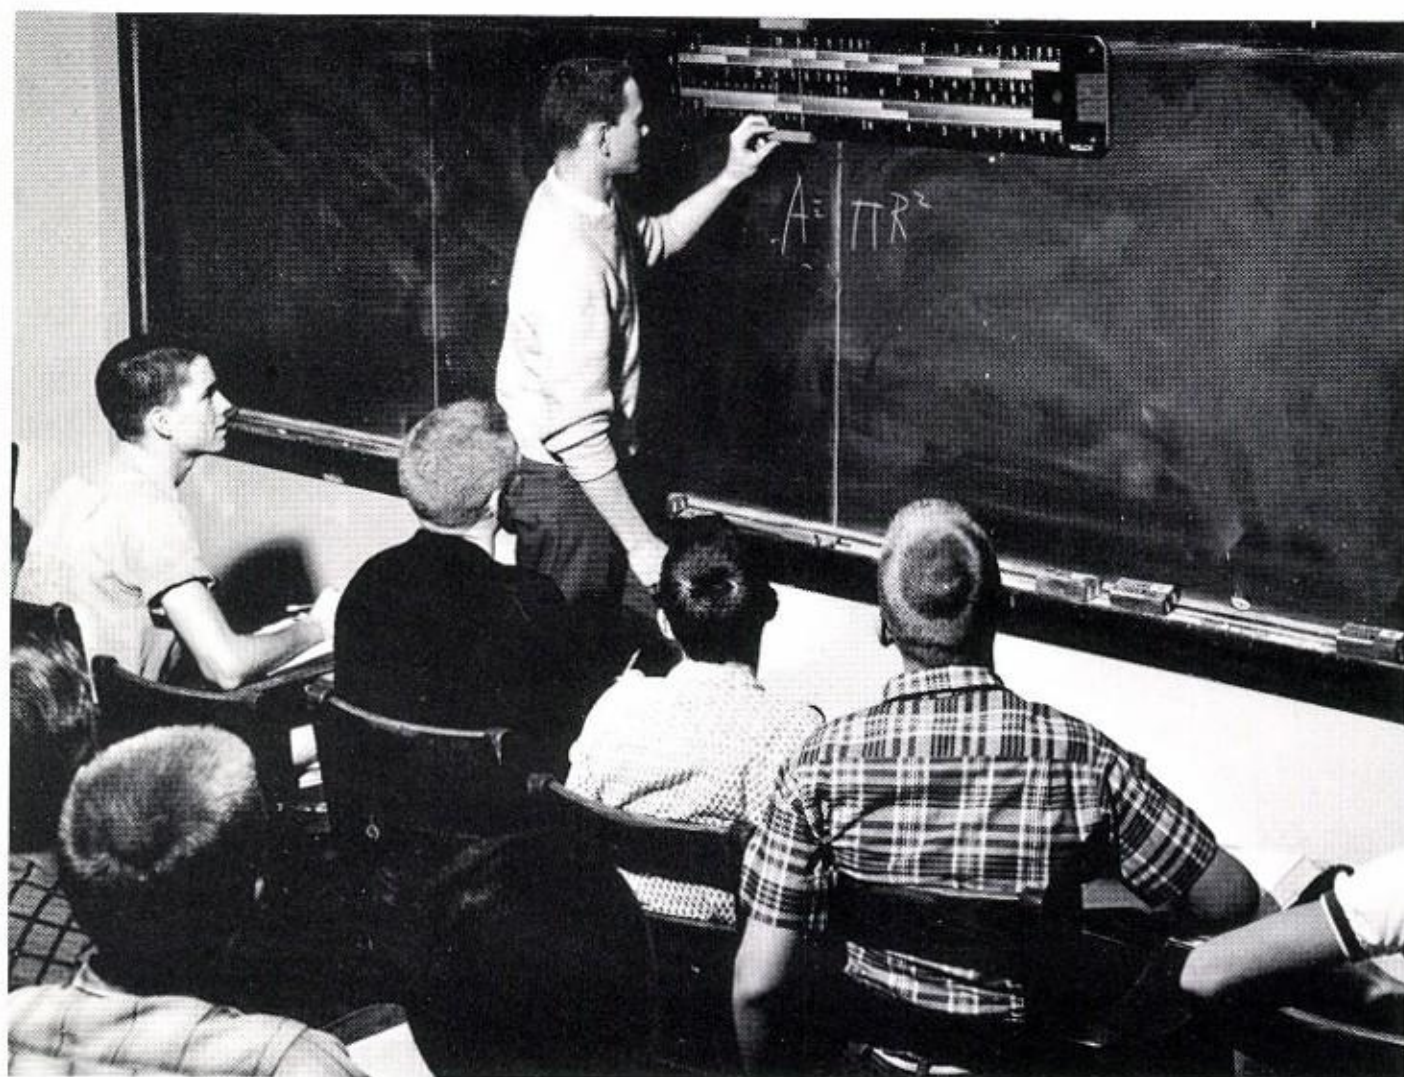

MATHEMATICS AND THE SCIENCES:

Larry Haworth solves a first degree linear equation in Algebra I.

Mathematics is the science of our number system. It gives us a means of expressing the relationships we observe in nature and of performing useful and necessary computations. Mathematics has been called the language of the sciences. It is essentially a thing of the mind for mathematics works through concepts, symbols, and relationships; it helps man to analyze and synthesize the complex phenomena of the universe and himself; it works in many ways to advance progress.

Sheridan High School offers a wide variety of math courses to its students. Freshmen take either Algebra I or General Math; sophomores take either Plane Geometry or Business Arithmetic; juniors may elect to take a semester of Algebra III and a semester of Trigonometry; seniors may elect to take a semester of Algebra IV and a semester of Solid Geometry.

Bob Zell shows Algebra III students how to operate a slide rule on a large demonstrator model.

VANGUARDS OF PROGRESS

Throughout the ages man has been discovering things about himself and his environment, but it was not until he started to write down his discoveries and observations that modern science began. The organized knowledge that has been collected and classified has developed into the fundamental sciences which we study today. Curiosity is the beginning of discovery, and through the sciences we can utilize our natural curiosity. We also learn the scientific method, which is no more than a logical approach to the solution of any problem which lends itself to investigation.

The science department at Sheridan High consists of courses in biology, physics, and chemistry. Biology deals with living things, their structure, life processes, and environment. Physics is concerned primarily with changes in materials which do not involve a change in composition. Chemistry is the science dealing with the composition of materials and the changes in composition which these materials undergo.

The sixth period physics class watches John Christy, Mr. Wiebusch, and Ellen Davis demonstrate an oscilloscope, demonstration meter, and induction coil.

Doreen Weaver and Steve Palmer attempt to discover new ways of blowing up the school building in fourth period chemistry. (Chemistry students have laboratory once a week.)

SKILLS FOR THE FUTURE: INDUSTRIAL

Larry Starrett, an advanced shop student, uses a drill press with a mortising attachment.

Vocational education is preparation for one's life work. Four years of industrial arts courses, consisting of a year of mechanical drawing and three years of shop, are offered at Sheridan High. The aim of these courses is to give boys manual training in the basic job-skills and to give them an understanding of the various trades, industries and conditions of employment.

Although agriculture is the oldest and most important of human occupations, the use of scientific knowledge and special technological training is a relatively recent development. Sheridan High offers four years of vocational agriculture courses. Agricultural education is aimed at providing a better life for the farmer of the future by providing him with the best and most efficient farming methods.

(Below) Candidates for the FFA Hoosier Farmer Degree work on their Supervised Farm Practice books.

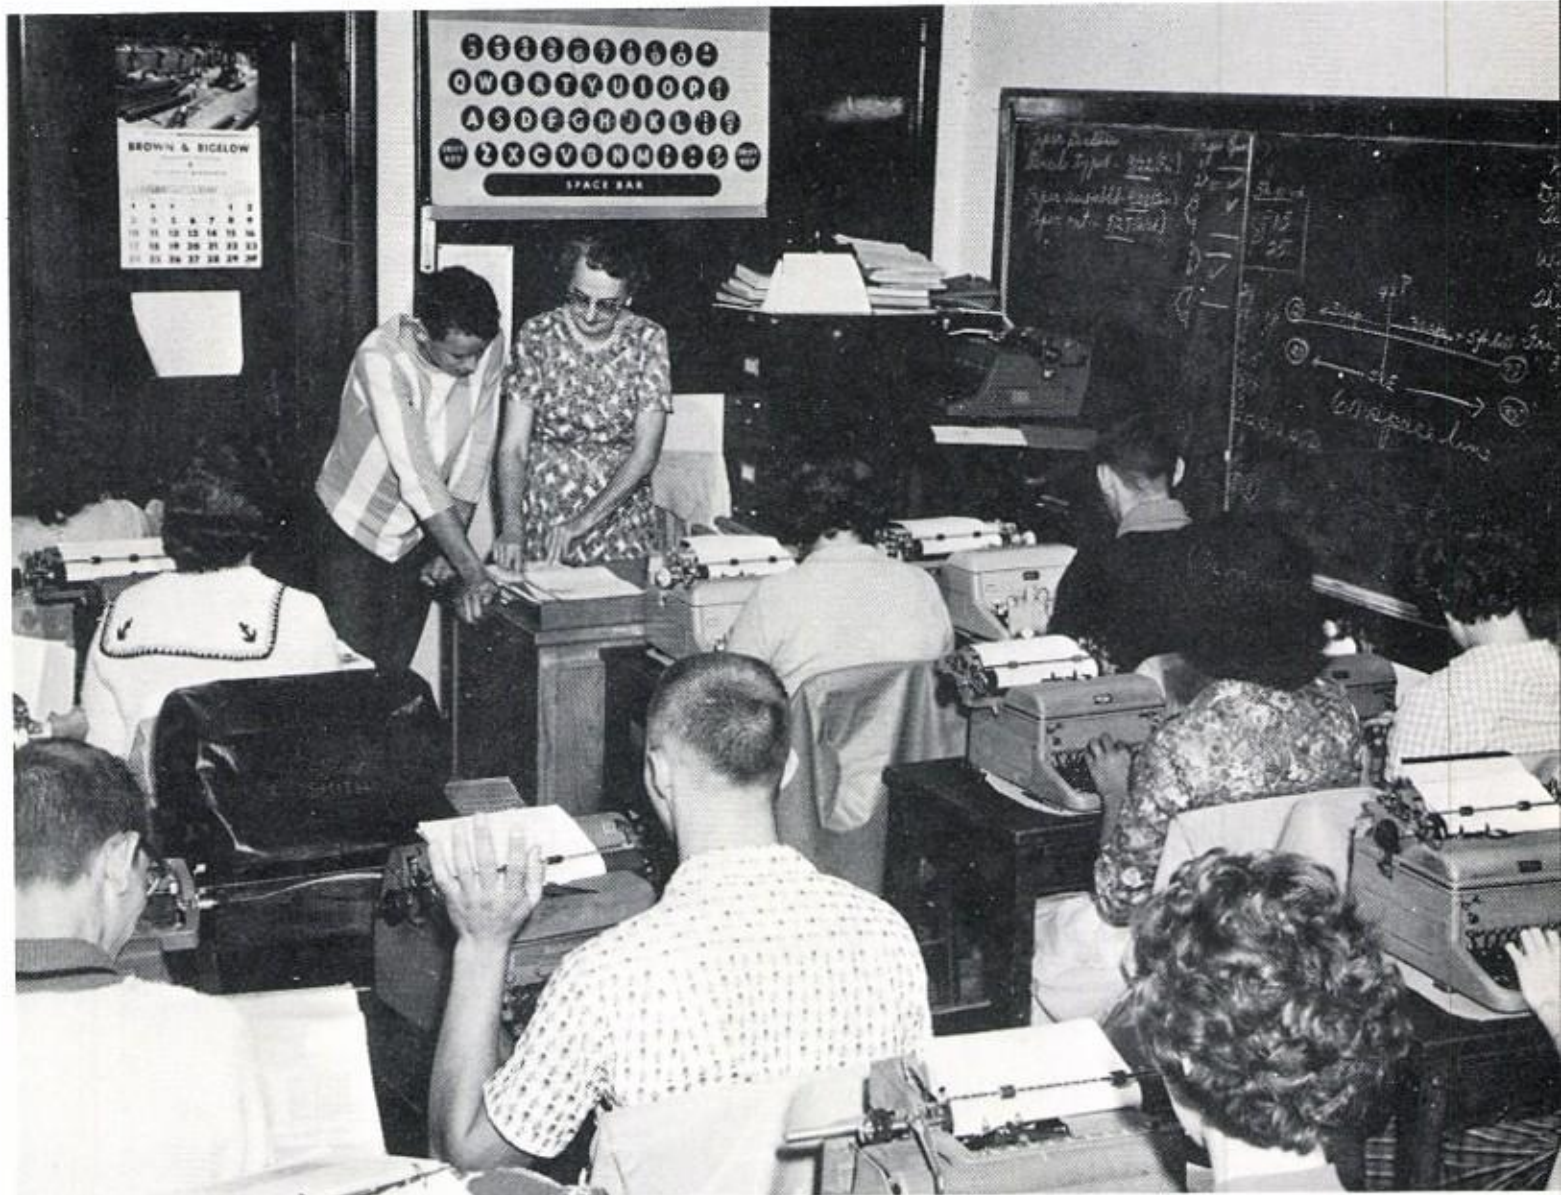

SHOP, AGRICULTURE, AND COMMERCE

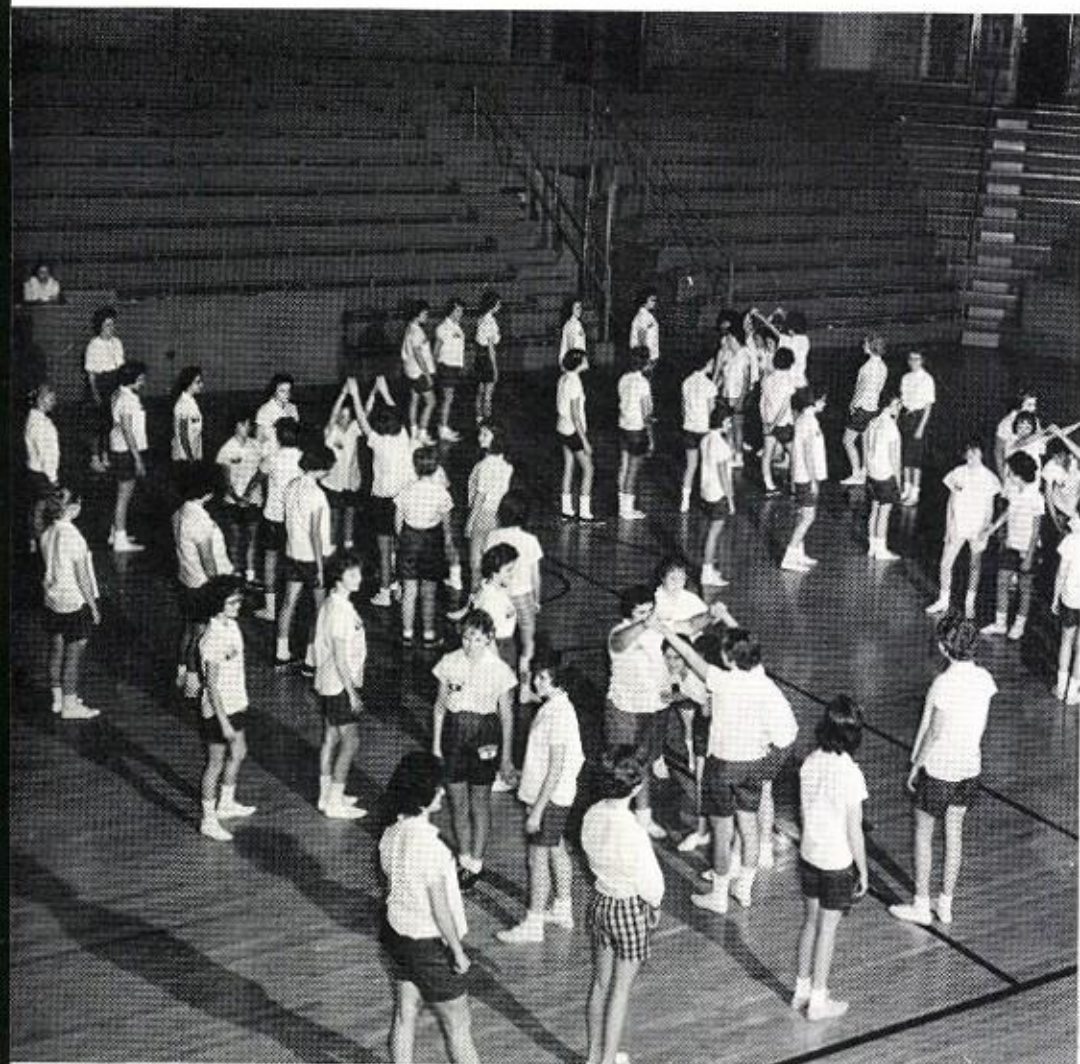

The major objective of the commerce department at Sheridan High School is to develop those skills and techniques which are required in the business and professional man's office. Since the modern business concern demands versatility in its employees as well as proficiency in the basic clerical skills, a wide variety of commercial courses is offered. The commerce department at Sheridan High School consists of elective courses in typing I and II, bookkeeping, shorthand, general business, and office practice.

Janet Dell operates a mimeograph in Office Practice class.

Students in Typing II class attempt to keep their speed under two hundred words per minute.

Freshmen girls participate in "rhythmic activities" (otherwise known as the Virginia Reel) in phys. ed. class.

Sheridan High School students take physical education and guidance during their freshman year and physical education and health during their sophomore year. In these classes they have an opportunity to learn good health and exercise habits and to participate in intramural sports. The physical conditioning acquired here will benefit them throughout their later lives. In guidance classes freshmen discuss problems and investigate possible vocations.

It is the purpose of the driver's training course to teach pupils correct driving techniques and the causes and prevention of automobile accidents. Such accidents are no longer considered "Acts of God." Through high school driver's education classes, many of these accidents may be prevented.

PHYS ED, HEALTH, DRIVERS TRAINING,

Mr. Dale McKee, using a plastic model, explains the workings of the heart to his sophomore health class.

Countdown! Patty Paddack prepares to drive in the driver's training car. Mr. Stout sits in the front seat also (with dual controls, naturally).

Senior home economics girls concentrate on their clothing projects.

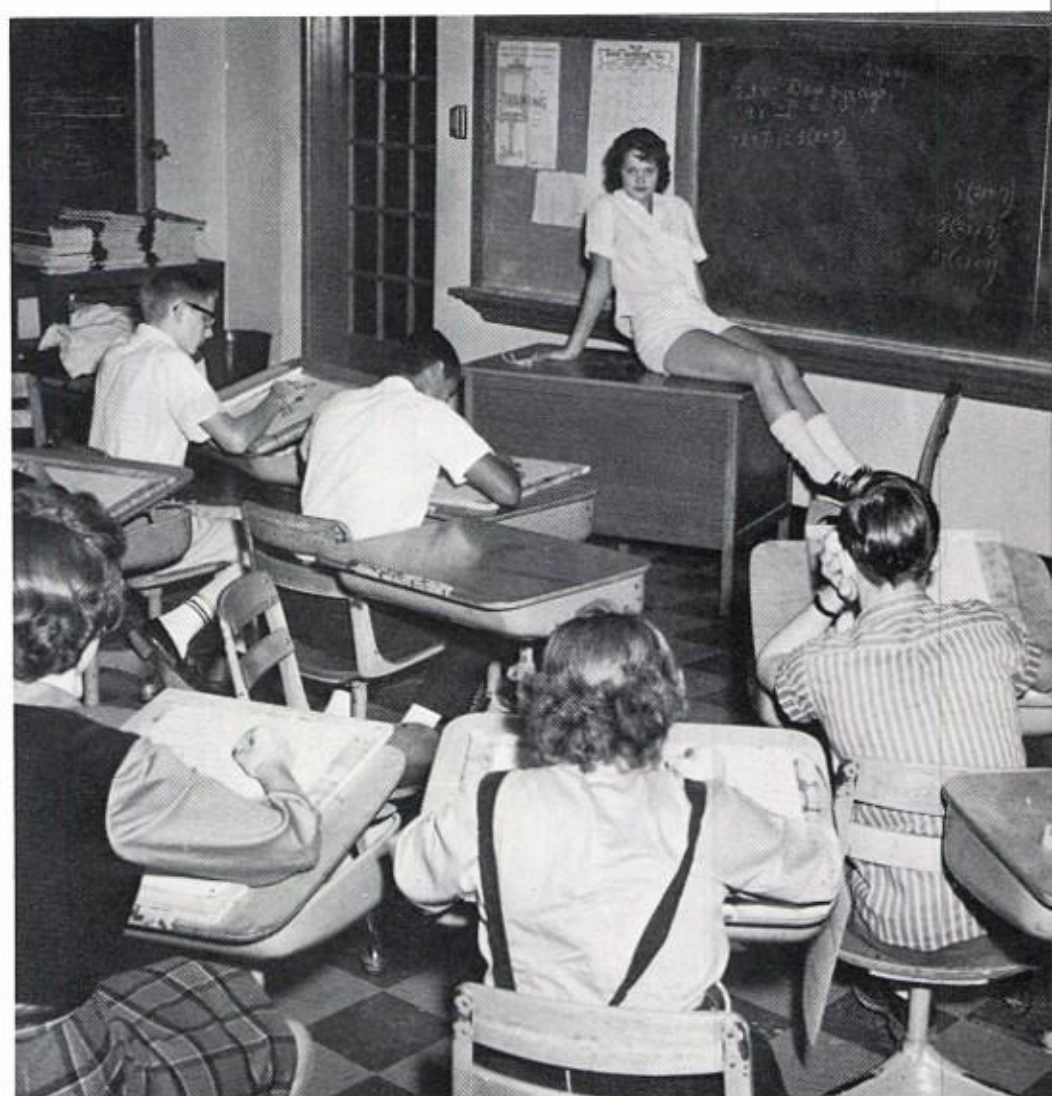

Eighth grade girls under Mr. Van Sickle's direction, lift their voices in sweet (?) harmony.

HOME ECONOMICS, GRADE MUSIC, ART

In home economics, the combined phases of the household arts, such as food, clothing, and care and financial management of the home, are studied. Sheridan High School girls are offered four years of home economics.

Art is the form given by man's imagination to his sensory and emotional experiences. Some form of art education is given to all of the first six grades and elective courses in art are offered to the high school and junior high.

Music is sometimes called a universal language. Through the Sheridan grade music department, students are taught the basic skills and history of music.

Advanced art students make charcoal sketches of model Joan Viehe.

THE FACES OF SHERIDAN HIGH: ACTIVITIES

Extracurricular activities are an important part of school life, and through them students may pursue their interests, develop poise, and experience responsibility. The types of organizations at Sheridan High range from the strictly honorary ones, which require certain specific qualifications for membership, to the open ones, which any student may join.

Approximately eighty-five per cent of the students of Sheridan High belong to one or more extracurricular organizations. The oldest organization at SHS is the Sunshine Society, and the newest is the Future Teachers of America which was organized too late to be included in this book.

NHS PROMOTES BETTER CITIZENSHIP

The Alpha Chapter of the National Honor Society was organized in 1946 at Sheridan High School and this year consists of ten members. Mrs. Joyce Cline is sponsor. Membership in this society is one of the highest goals a student can achieve while in high school. Qualifications for membership are scholarship, leadership, personality, character, personal appearance, initiative, and service to school. A "B" average for three semesters prior to admittance is also required.

The purpose of this chapter is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to prompt worthy leadership, to encourage the development of character and initiative, in the pupils of Sheridan High School.

STUDENT COUNCIL DEVELOPS LEADERSHIP

The Student Council at SHS was organized in 1959 and consists of three people elected from each high school class. Its sponsor is Mrs. John Mitchell. Members must possess high moral character, average scholarship, and have the ability to assume responsibility and provide leadership.

The Student Council has initiated a program for the purchase and maintenance of sound and stage equipment.

The purpose of the Sheridan High School Student Council is to improve citizenship. It attempts to provide a forum for student expression, boost school morale, and promote harmonious relationships between faculty and students.

Student Council president Joe George checks sound equipment with time keeper James Guttman.

The purpose of a school yearbook is to record the history of one complete school year, truthfully, and yet imaginatively. This "book of the year" is a documentary and permanent record of the people, events, and spirit of that school year.

The theme of the 1961-62 Syllabus is "The Faces of Sheridan High." The number of actual pages was increased from sixty-three to eighty by having advertising at the page bottom instead of in a special section. Three hundred fifty copies of the book, at three dollars each, were sold. Added to the staff this year were four juniors, who served as editorial assistants.

This year the Blackhawk Broadcast has a staff of eighteen members. Lucinda McKinney is the editor, Linda Kinnard is the associate editor, Beverly McKinney is the business manager, and Mrs. Della Spear is the sponsor. Staff members must possess the ability to write news stories, features, sports stories; good knowledge of English; and the ability to type.

SUNSHINE, BOYS' COUNCIL SERVE SHS

The Sheridan Sunshine Society, a chapter of the Indiana Sunshine Society, has a membership of 165, or all the girls in high school. The local chapter was initiated in 1931. The purpose of this organization is to give the members opportunities for service locally and to contribute to the state project, the Riley Fund. The emblem of the organization is the rising sun.

The Sunshine Society has nine meetings per year and these are usually held on the fourth Wednesday of each month. New members are received into the society at a candlelight initiation service held at a local church. The society sponsors a bake sale in the fall and sells ice cream at noon during the second semester.

HAMMER'S HELPERS, PROJECTIONISTS

Hammer's Helpers is an organization of twenty-five high school students who assist Mrs. Hammer in managing the two school libraries (high school and grade). These assistants are interested in the skill of library work; they learn, by actual participation, how a library is administered, and how to assist students looking for information. Hammer's Helpers was organized in 1956; this year's officers are: Kathy Gotshall, president; Janet Hammer, vice-president; and Patty Martin, secretary-treasurer. The organization sponsors a special program during Book Week (November 12-19), and sends a member to a summer workshop at Indiana University.

Audio-Visual aids are a fairly new service of the school, and require specially trained student projectionists. These boys are trained by Mr. Evers, the County Audio-Visual Coordinator, and are then able to show films in the class room at a teacher's request.

THE FACES OF SHERIDAN HIGH: SPORTS

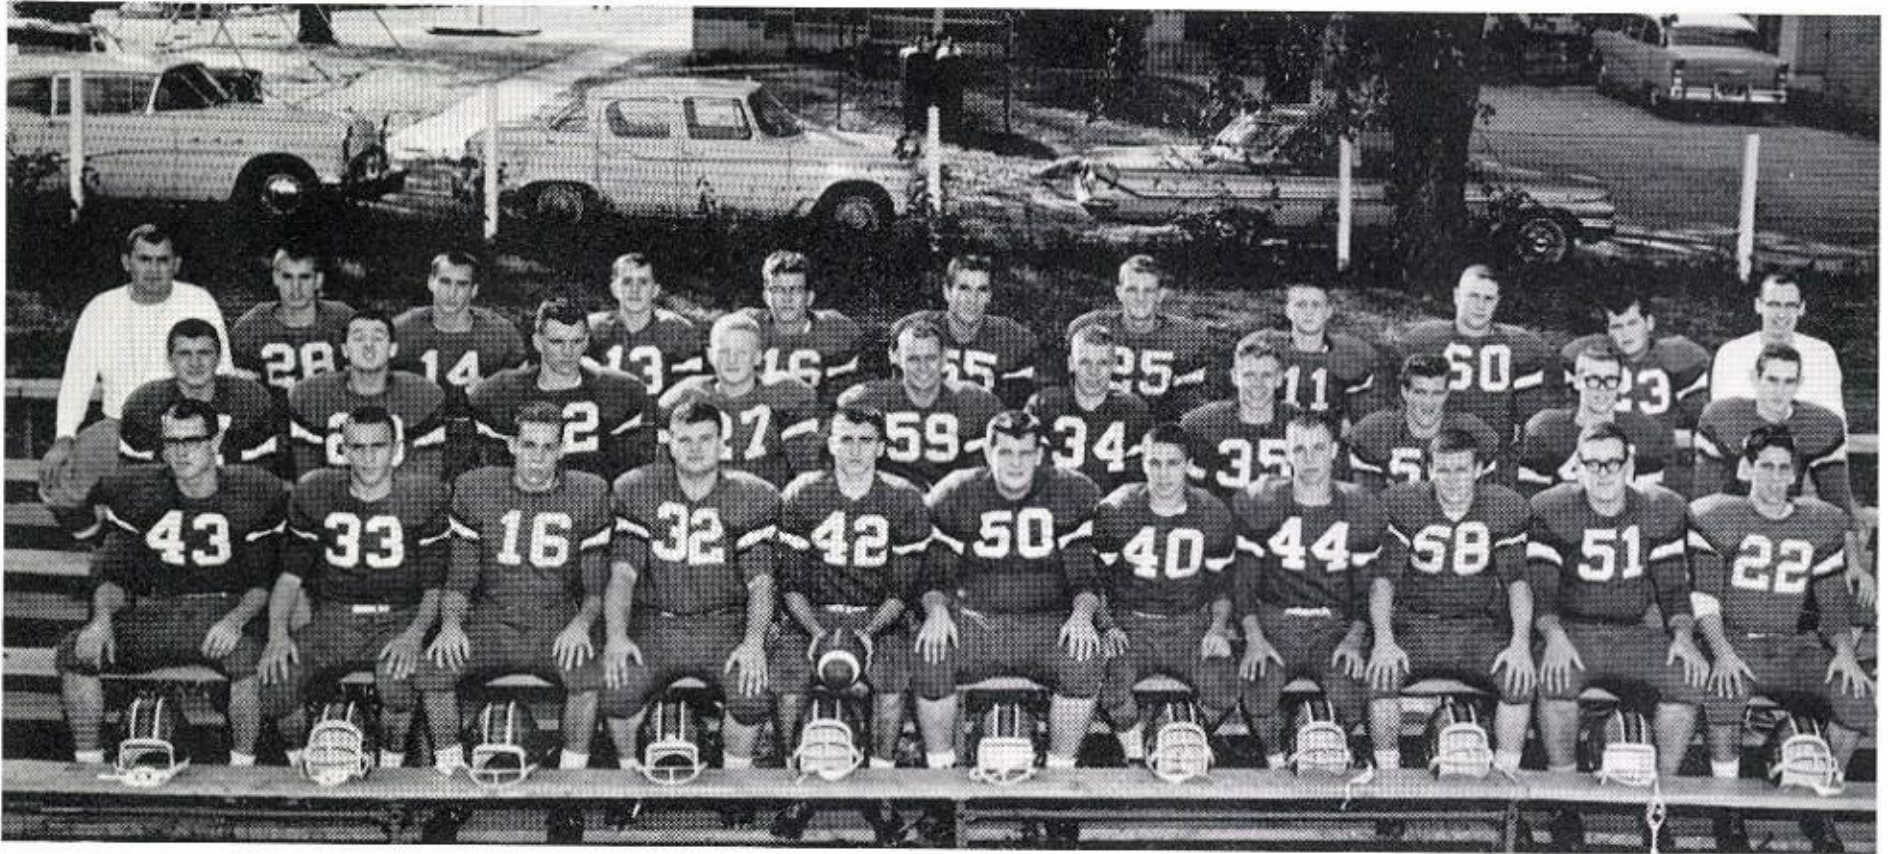

The athletic program at Sheridan High is an important part of school life. Sports are for health, for development, for joy of effort, and for satisfaction of achievement. Sports represent accomplishment--the satisfaction of having an objective and striving for it. The striving may be successful or unsuccessful, but that does not matter so much if the player feels he has given his best effort. Striving and struggling leave their imprint on the personality of the individual who has participated and given his best. Also, organized athletics bring the school and community together in a universal feeling. Sports are a common denominator of interest.

Sheridan High fields teams in football, cross country, basketball, and track. Varsity athletes in each of these sports are awarded major letters, and senior varsity lettermen receive honor jackets.

Under rookie head coach Richard Van Arsdel and assistant James Guttman the Sheridan football team posted a 1961 season record of five wins, five losses, and tied Carmel and Jackson Central for the Hamilton County title. The Hawks got off to a sluggish start and were 1-4 at midseason, but as the offense and defense finally meshed, they roared through the second half of the schedule 4-1, and finished with a .500 season record. Tom Grinstead, Sheridan halfback, was the 1961 Hamilton County scoring champion with 48 points. The Blackhawks used a multiple offense and place kicked extra points; they outscored their opponents, 164 to 162. Against Westfield and Delphi, Sheridan ran back punts for touchdowns, and against Carmel, the Hawks ran a kickoff back all the way. The Carmel game was probably the high point of the season, as the Hawks beat the Greyhounds 14-12 in a thriller and clinched a first place tie for the county crown.

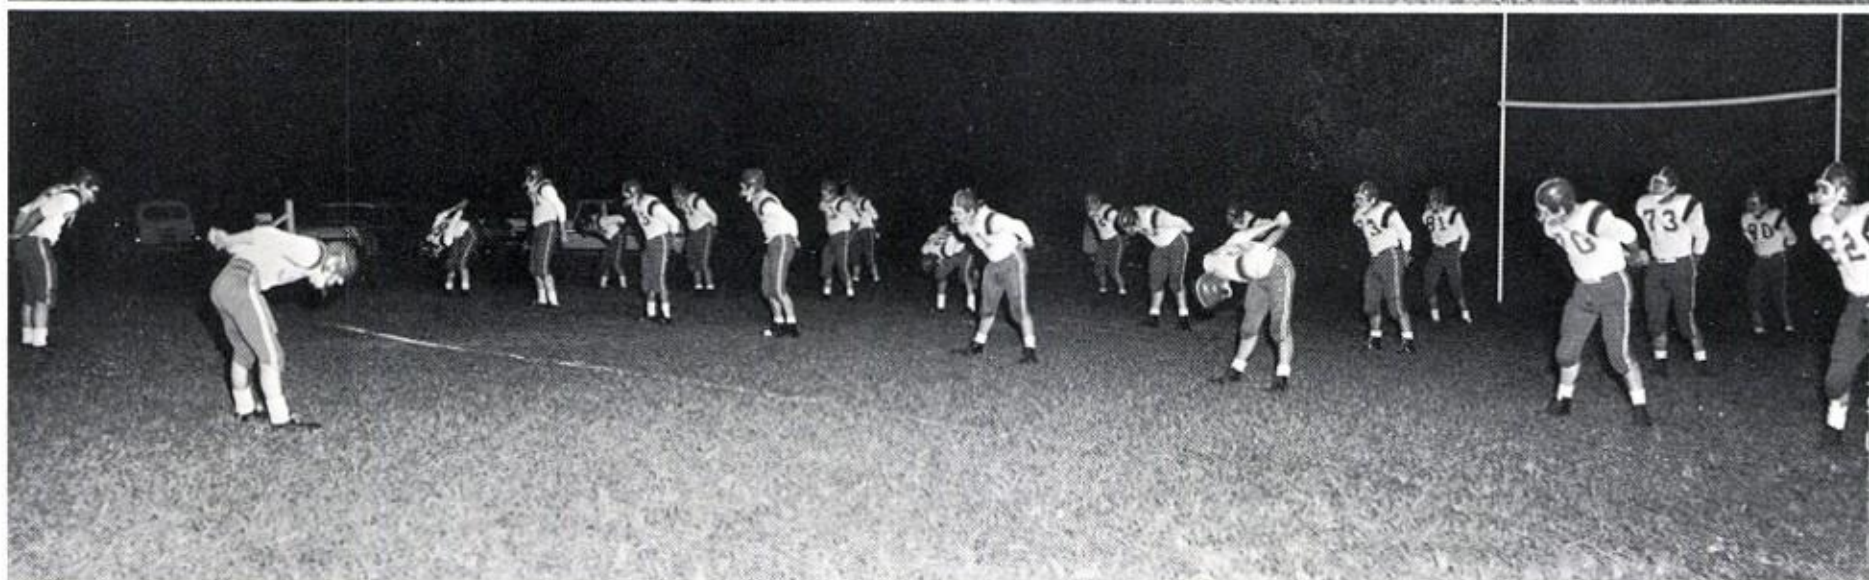

Head football coach Richard Van Arsdel and assistant coach James Guttman discuss strategy.

HAWKS GRAB THIRD OF CROWN AS THREE

Football at Sheridan High begins on August 15, more than two weeks before school starts. Sixty-two boys, the highest turnout in recent years, reported for action this season. Twenty-eight practices and chalk talks were held before the first game. The first few days of practice were devoted to conditioning, then the emphasis was placed on the fundamentals of blocking and tackling, basic offensive and defensive formations, and more conditioning drills. Wind sprints were especially popular (with the coaches, that is). A new two man blocking and tackling sled was used this year, together with several air dummies. The varsity had twenty-two new helmets, and new red game uniforms. A full game scrimmage was held for parents and fans before the season began, and football fundamentals and techniques were explained to them by the coaching staff afterwards.

The way the game is progressing, whether favorably or not favorably, is reflected in the faces of the reserves.

Tom Moore takes a pitch out from Stan Smith and picks up 7 yards around right end in the third quarter of the Carmel game.

SHERIDAN CAGERS HAVE THEIR UPS AND

The varsity basketball team, under the direction of coach Dale McKee, finished the 1961-62 season with a record of 5 wins and 15 losses. Coach McKee had to face a rough schedule with only two experienced lettermen and one player over six feet. Three seniors, six juniors, eight sophomores, and fourteen freshmen played basketball on one of Sheridan's three high school teams. The junior varsity finished the season with a record of 8 wins and 9 losses, and the freshman team had a record of 4 wins and 5 losses.

McCAIN'S IGA MARKETS

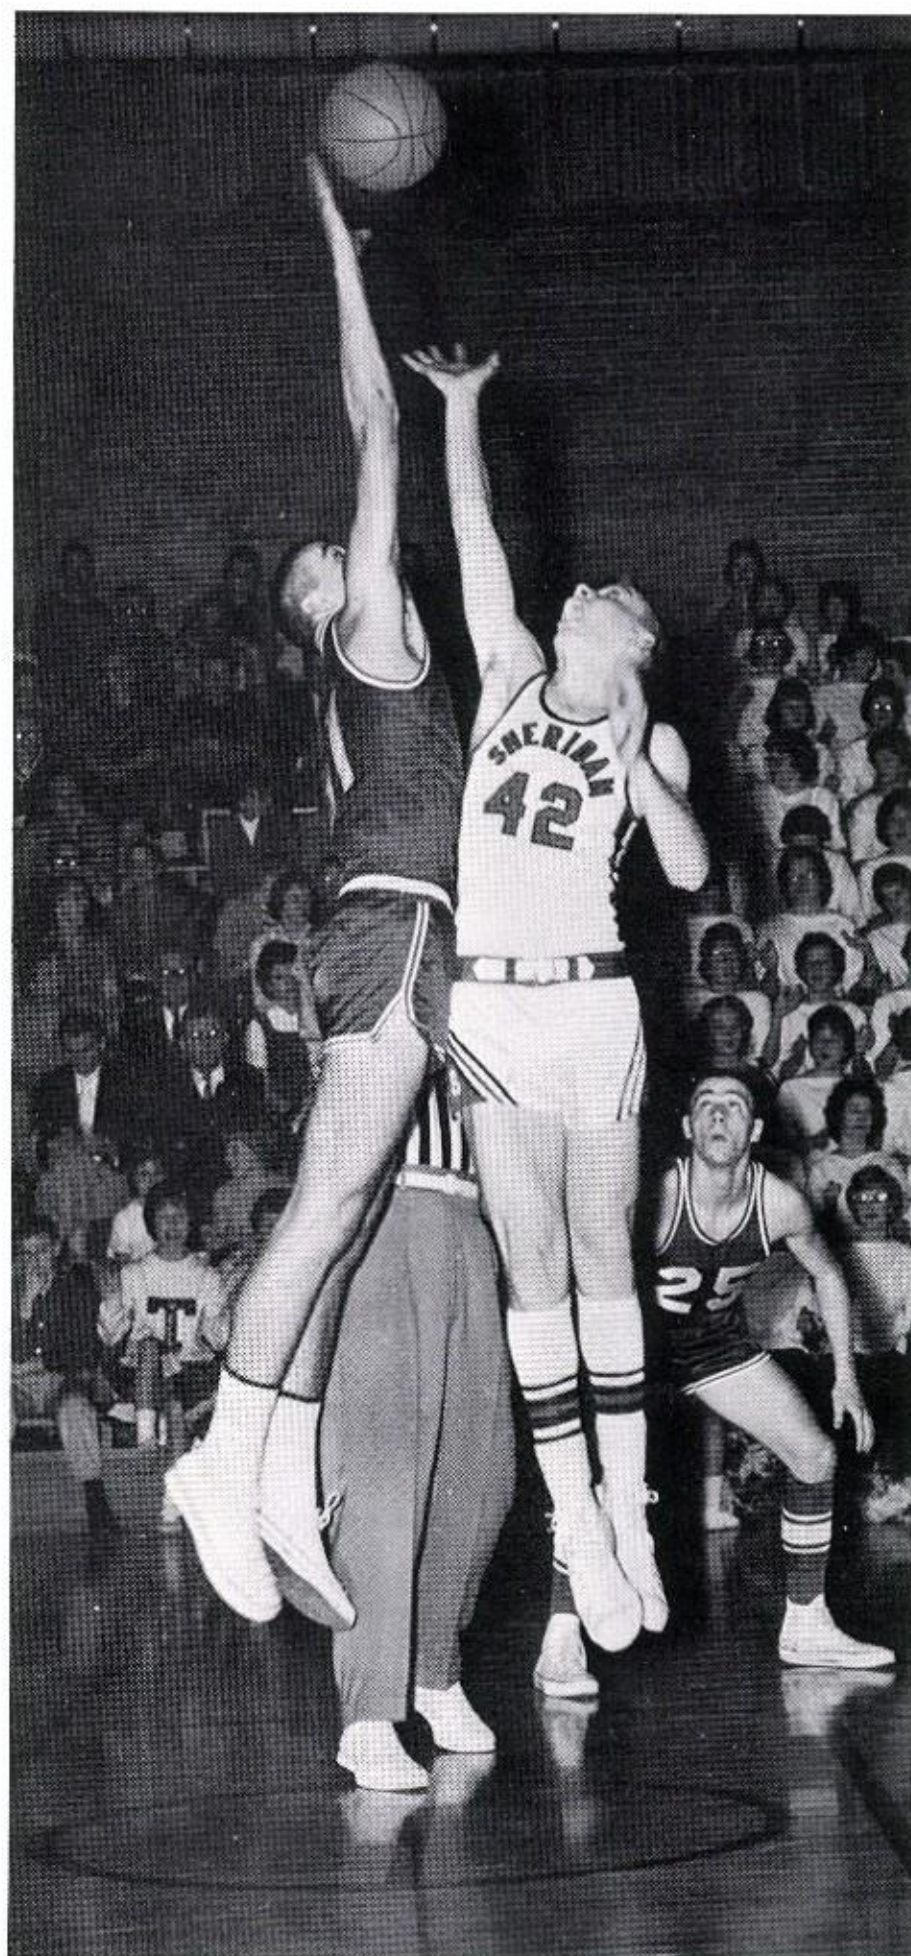

SHERIDAN, A TYPICAL INDIANA TOWN,

Basketball, the youngest of the major school sports was originated in 1891 by Dr. James Naismith at the YMCA school, Springfield, Massachusetts. While most other games have had a gradual growth from centuries back, basketball was a deliberate invention. The game was developed to satisfy the need for a popular winter sport, and it is purely a synthetic indoor game based on the Indian game of lacrosse and soccer. From the peach basket-soccer ball stage, the game has spread to almost every land and is second only to tennis, soccer, and golf as a universal game.

JR. HIGH ATHLETES AWAIT TOMORROW

A large number of boys turned out for junior high basketball this year. The team, under the direction of Coach James Guttman plays a 16 game schedule and participates in the County Junior High Tourney. They face such formidable opponents as Frankfort; Noblesville; Pike Township; Tecumseh and Sunnyside, both from Lafayette.

This year Sheridan fielded one of the best Junior High football teams it has ever had. Under the direction of coach Barney Stout, the seventh and eighth graders rolled up a 6-1 record, and out scored their opponents 101 to 31. The Hawks beat Delphi, Northwestern, Carmel, Westfield, Tipton, Clinton Central, and lost only to Jackson Central.

CHEERY CHEERLEADERS CHEER CHEERERS

The cheerleaders spent many hours practicing after school; they used the halls because the basketball team practiced in the gym.

Cheerleaders need more than mere desire to be effective before a large audience; they need a pleasing personality, good personal appearance, imagination, resourcefulness, organizing ability, leadership, acrobatic ability, and last, but not least, a commanding voice.

This year's high school cheerleaders were elected by the high school from a specially screened field of ten girls; they are Kathy Marlow, Doris Grinstead, Karen Noe, and Judy Bishop. Junior high cheerleaders are Julie Dunlavey, Mary Jane Pickett, Lynn Purdy, and Nancy Ringer.

THE FACES OF SHERIDAN HIGH: PEOPLE

The most important component of Sheridan High School is the people who attend it. Our school consists of many separate individuals, each important in talents, abilities and contributions.

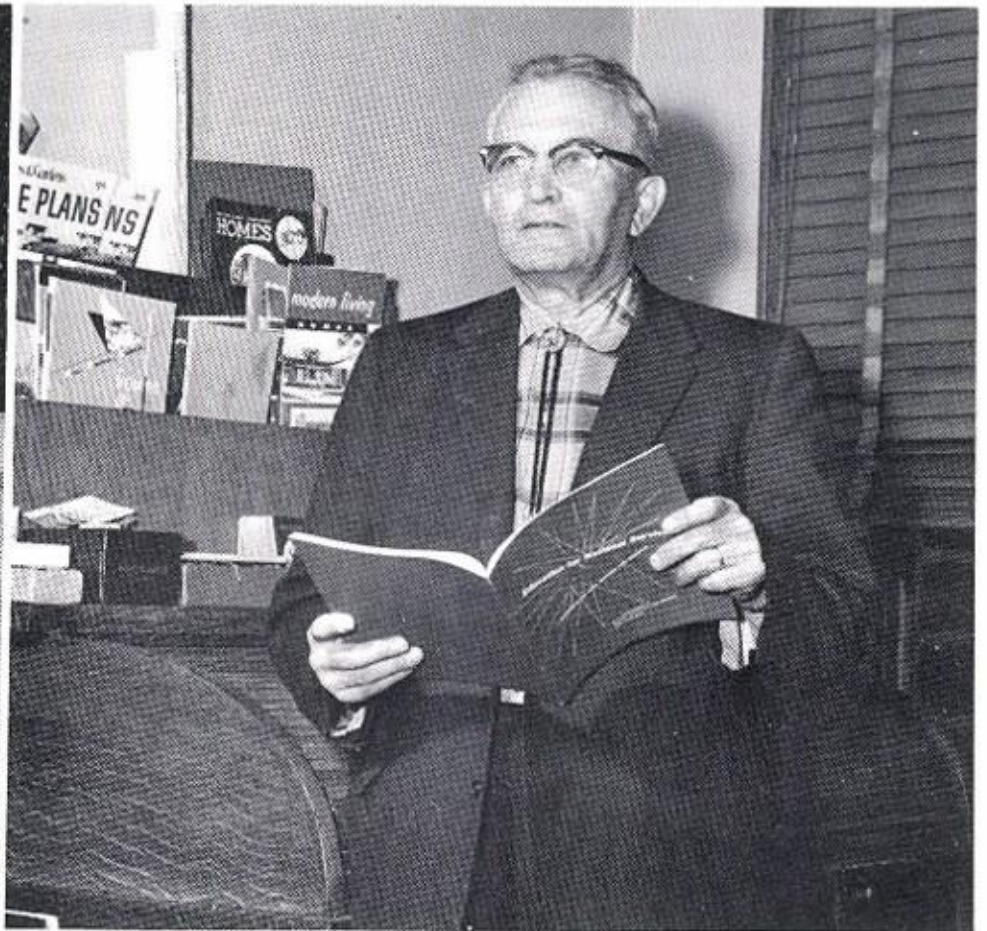

In the last ten years the enrollment of Sheridan High School has increased from 254 to 353 with a corresponding increase in the first eight grades. SHS is expanding steadily and will continue to do so in the future. It has already outgrown its once adequate educational facilities. One of the great challenges of the coming years will be how to better educate and train a constantly growing student body.

EDUCATION IS A DEBT DUE FROM THE

Mr. Larry Hobbs, principal of Sheridan School.

Mr. Kenneth R. Raquet, trustee of Adams township schools.

This was the fifteenth year at Sheridan High School for our principal, Mr. Larry Hobbs. It is a reflection upon his administration that SHS has had no major disciplinary problems recently, and that a high degree of cooperation exists between students and faculty. Mr. Hobbs has gained and held the respect of the student body. He also serves as a counselor, helping and advising students with regard to a choice of curriculum, college, or vocation. Mr. Hobbs is never too busy to help a student with a problem.

Mr. Kenneth Raquet is serving his third year as Adams Township Trustee. Mr. Raquet is the manager of the Talbert-Roessler Lumber Company of Sheridan.

The Adams Township Advisory Board, consists of Mr. Loyd Grinstead, Mr. Bob Ogle, and Harold Ringer.

SOCIAL LIFE, VARIED BUT NEVER DULL

It might be the Twist, Hulley Gulley, Fly, Bristol Stomp, or a slower variety of dance step, but SHS students enjoy dancing.

The gym at noon is a popular meeting place for discussion, laughter, and sitting with a "friend."

FHA Queen Sibby Stoops, a freshman, is crowned by last year's queen Valeria Goodner, as sophomore candidate Sandra Drish, senior candidate Linda Ogle, and junior candidate Martha Richardson look on.

A. WEAVER AND SONS

COOKS AND CUSTODIANS OF SHS

During the entire school year the cooks at S.H.S. are busy planning and serving five well balanced meals a week. Their duties include preparing food in the morning, serving lunches, and cleaning up the cafeteria in the afternoon.

From early morning to late evening the janitors perform their seemingly thankless but important duties. They keep S.H.S. clean and safe creating a healthy atmosphere in which we can study and live. They have no vacation; they are here for nearly all extracurricular activities, and work all summer reconditioning the school building.

To these seven women and three men who are so important in keeping our school comfortable, we wish to say "Thank you."
